

For Immediate Release

March 16, 2011 – Chesley Brown International Receives the SAFETY Act Designation by the Department of Homeland Security

Chesley Brown International announces that it is now Designated as a Qualified Anti-Terrorism Technology (QATT) by the United States Department of Homeland Security (DHS).

What is the SAFETY Act?

In the wake of terrorist attacks on US soil, the Congress looked for ways to increase the deployment of security technologies in the private sector. Policy makers determined that uncertainty surrounding liability questions were a significant impediment to the implementation of life saving security technology. The Support Anti-Terrorism by Fostering Effective Technologies (SAFETY) Act was enacted in 2002 to answer some of those liability questions.

About Chesley Brown International - Listen. Solve. Execute.

Founded in 1990, Chesley Brown is a security management company providing customized security solutions including consulting, on-site management and interactive remote monitoring. Chesley Brown has become the leading security advisory and auditing firm. The Chesley Brown Report has become a valuable security management tool for property owners and management companies, setting the standard for the industry.